

Friday October 5, 2013

10-4 Day Parade Comes To Streets of Hollywood

The tenth annual 10-4 Day parade came to Hollywood Boulevard this afternoon, with dozens of vintage police cars on display up and down the street. The yearly event, which begins at the Los Angeles Fire Department Museum, honors those in public service. The parade concluded with a brief stop at the Walk of Fame star of Broderick Crawford, who starred in the 1950s television show Highway Patrol. "This is a great opportunity to recognize our public safety officers and all they do to protect and serve," Councilmember LaBonge said.

